The eyewitness described the shooter as a 20-year-old, clean-shaven Puerto Rican man with a “stocky” or “chunky” build. Echavarria, from the Dominican Republic, is 5-foot-10 and, in 1994, weighed 135 pounds and had a full mustache.
In December, the U.N. General Assembly urged the Security Council to consider referring North Korea to the International Criminal Court after a U.N. inquiry detailed wide-ranging abuses in the isolated country comparable to Nazi-era atrocities.

This marks the largest study to examine the statistical link between BMI and the risk of dementia. The researchers found that this link did not appear to be affected by the decade in which the participants were born, or by their age at the time of their diagnosis.

However, Nepal can only produce 8,000 bundles a day, said National Planning Commission vice-chairman Govind Raj Pokharel. It also lacks the diggers, excavators and cranes needed to clear rubble and make space for better temporary housing.

"It's a tough start. It's an unfortunate bounce," St. Louis said. "I'm coming in taking a one-timer. I kind of get hand-cuffed a bit. I try to kick it back to my skate. I don't know if I catch a rut or what, but obviously I end up on the ice, and then that's a big lonely feeling when you're the last guy.

"There's a massive gap between what people know about science and what we actually do in labs," he said. "The best way to talk about it is not in a lecture hall but in a relaxed environment, where you can have a drink."

Thousands have fled their homes in recent days because of the fighting and some 650,000 civilians are without access to aid in Upper Nile State and neighbouring Unity State, according to the U.N. Humanitarian Coordinator for South Sudan.
"We make up 51 percent of planet Earth and we're just very disproportionately represented, in terms of directors and writers - the people in charge of the storytelling. So we just need more films from women's points of view," she said.
