A. It would be a waste of time and money for your aunt to appeal USCIS' denial of her naturalization application. With limited exceptions, a permanent resident must have been physically present in the United States for half the days in the five years prior to the date USCIS receives the naturalization application. For a person applying under the special rules for the spouse of a U.S. citizen, the applicant must have been physically present for half the prior three years. Under the five-year rule, that's 913 days. For those applying as the spouse of a U.S. citizen, 548 days.
