The Dow Jones industrial average and S&P 500 rose to record highs on Monday. Several factors fueled the gains. One was a 1.1 percent rise for Apple shares after billionaire activist investor Carl Icahn, a top 10 Apple shareholder, said the stock was "still dramatically undervalued." Lukewarm economic data also helped, because it suggested the Federal Reserve might delay hiking interest rates to give the recovery more time. The U.S. gains boosted global stocks early Tuesday.

"The leadership contenders all fault Labour’s strategy under Mr Miliband. They rightly talk about reconnecting with voters, but when they also talk about the need for party unity this sounds like continuity and an unwillingness to make hard policy choices. This is a luxury that is not open to them - not if they want to win."

"Our work shows that high levels of fat and salt have opposite effects [for] reproductive health," says Pitynski. "High fat diet is thought to accelerate the onset of puberty but our work demonstrates that rats fed a high salt diet even with a high fat diet will still show a delay in puberty onset."

"At present, we are in the first step in cooperating and negotiating with Apple for payment systems," Ma said. "We also hope both sides could exhibit the willingness to conduct cooperation in more spheres than payment systems."
